PSI Agrees to 2 Changes in Leases With Merchants in Palmer Square

Two changes will be made in the leases of Palmer Square merchants as a result of the June 23 meeting with officials of Palmer Square, Inc., but the protested one-year lease term remains, and so do the rent increases of approximately 20 percent.

Also, the merchants' committee has announced five more topics they believe merchants should discuss with PSI. A meeting was scheduled for Tuesday night of this week, and most of the 25 merchant tenants were expected to attend.

Committee members said this week, however, that they do not expect any firm decisions to come out of the meeting. So far, no leases have been signed. PSI granted a two-week extension of the original June 20 deadline.

The two concessions are: no evening hours will be required and each store will be allowed to set its own hours; also PSI has agreed to a request to match the tenants' required advertising contribution.

The new leases require each tenant to contribute one-half of one month's rent each year toward co-operative Square advertising. PSI has asked the tenants to appoint a five-member committee on advertising to work with the Square. PSI also says that none of these funds will be used to advertise the Nassau Inn, but it does reserve the right to make final decisions on the way the funds will be spent.

Additional points the PSI merchants' committee wants to discuss:

- "Improved"—also defined as "additional"—lighting around the Square and in the PSI parking lots, if stores decide to be open in the evenings.
- Uniformed guard patrol in the evenings for the same reason. The merchants believe this might encourage more stores to stay open.
- Free parking spaces for tenants. The committee believes rents are high enough to justify a minimum of one free parking space for each store, and one free space for each additional thousand square feet of floor space if a store is larger than 1,000 square feet
- Street fairs, like the Art People Party each May, should be prohibited, except on Sundays. Merchants believe they "materially reduce" business for the entire day on which they are held.
- Free meeting rooms where PSI merchants may meet once a month, "or more often, if necessary" to discuss mutual concerns.

The merchants committee suggests formation of a Palmer Square Merchants Association. The group would suggest a trial period of evening hours, discuss ways of enticing employees to leave street parking spaces for customers and park somewhere else, appoint the advertising committee to work with PSI, and restudy the pattern of community giving.

Merchants say that many of them give generously to various Princeton charities, and they warn this may have to stop.

"If we have to pay out so much more in rent, it's hard to see how we can keep on giving to various organizations as we have in the past," one shop-

Borough's Equalized Tax Rate Passes Township's; Trend Likely to Continue Without Consolidation

Tax bills, Borough and Township, have been mailed. Already, from taxpayers who have received theirs, telephones are ringing off the hook in municipal tax offices. Some mistake, surely? Typographical error, surely? No mistake.

The overall Borough tax rate, including local, school and county, is 15.8 percent higher than last year's. The local rate is 40 percent higher.

In contrast, the overall Township tax rate, including local, schol and county, is 5.5 percent higher than last year's. The local rate is only 3.3 percent higher.

In fact, for the first time in a decade – and maybe even longer, but figures go back only that far – the Borough's equalized adjusted tax rate is higher than the Township's.

Nominally, of course, the Borough has always had a higher overall rate – and in this context, "overall" means the combination of local, school and county taxes that adds up to the total rate – than the Township. The only way to bring the two into line for purposes of accurate comparison is to use the county's formula that takes into account the actual prices people are paying for houses as well as the assessments on houses.

Under the county's formula, the Borough always turned out to be higher than the Township, overall. This was true throughout the decade of the 1970s.

The other factor that has to be considered is the adjustment made for garbage collection. Garbage, municipally collected, is included in the local tax for Borough residents. It's not part of a Township tax bill.

This year, whether you just equalize, or equalize and adjust for Borough garbage collection, the Borough's overall rate is higher than the Township's.

If you equalize, there is a 21-cent difference: $2.68 for the Borough, $2.47 for the Township. If you adjust for garbage collection as well, the difference is 13 cents.

The overall Borough tax rate is $7.01, up from $6.05. The Township's is $4.39, up from $4.16. There is a 42-cent increase in the Borough's local tax, a two-cent increase in the Township's.

Your tax bill this year reflects the final year of the five-year phase-in of the shift from paying school taxes on a per-pupil basis, to paying on a rateables basis. You'll start paying this 1980 bill in August, with a second installment in November. This means that the phase-in will actually dribble over into 1981, with your February and May payments, but technically 1980 is the final year.

keeper said

He asked not to be identified; in fact, merchants who spoke out originally and gave their names, are now saying, "Don't use my name! I'm afraid 'they' might kick me out."

Current Viewpoints. In a free-wheeling conversation early this week with three merchants, these points were raised:

• "Princeton is going to seed. People say it's not the town it used to be, and with one-year leases, how can we afford to fix up our shops?"

• "Witherspoon gets more traffic than Palmer Square, which is a bottleneck, a dead end."

• "We're not trying to pull the University down, stone by stone. They're good neighbors who have made an error in judgment." (Princetnn University nwns Palmer Square.)

• "The possible expansion of the Square was exciting! It was exciting to be taking an active rnle in those changes, hut now all that has been frittered away and it seems a poor way to compensate the town."

• "There is no place for customers to park: conventions and luncheons at the Nassau Inn fill all the lots."

Comment Withheld. Key outsiders—Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley and the Chamber of Commerce—are wary about comment.

"I really can't comment because t don't know what's behind the University's economics," Mayor Cawley said Monday. "Economically snund enterprises are important for the health of the downtown—will this shake out the weak shops? It's hard not to feel some nostalgia, hut everyone suffers if a couple of places aren't active.

"And I don't think Princeton is 'seedy'! We have the new Benson Building, the new Nassau Savings and Loan building, and I think the Palmer Square shops look fine!"

Tax Rate

From now on, therefore, Borough and Township will have the same equalized school tax. After revaluation, the county tax also should be equalized, so that two-thirds of your tax bill will have the same, equalized tax as your neighbor across the Borough-Township line. Only the local tax will be different.

These comments about the tax situation were made this week by Jay Bleiman, who brought tax figures up to date at the request of four Princetonians who supported consolidation of Borough and Township, and have been closely watching the financial picture since consolidation's defeat last fall. The four are Stanley C. Smoyer, Ingrid Reed, Helen Fairbanks and Letitia Ufford – two Township and two borough residents. Mr. Bleiman, with Peter Bearse, was co-chairman of the fiscal sub-committee of the Consolidation Study Commission.

Mr. Bleiman believes Borough and Township rates will continue to spread apart: the Borough has little surplus and few rateables; the Township a sizeable surplus and the potential for many rateables.

Bornugh Surplus: $8,000. For example, he says, to hold down this year's tax rate, the Township appropriated $550,000 from surplus, and still has $347,567 left. The Borough could appropriate only $110,000 and has slightly under $8,000 left as surplus.

(The Township must keep a sizeable surplus, explains Administrator Joseph R. Nini, in case J. Seward Johnson wins his tax appeal on "Jasna Polana," his Route 206 estate. The Township is now awaiting a decision on one part of the suit, involving an assessment of $1.5 million. The second part, says attorney Edwin Schmeier, concerns a $7.4 million assessment. tt hasn't even been scheduled for trial.

Regarding rateables, Borough-Township assessor Stuart Robson says that at full assessment, $15 million "Constitution Hill" could bring the Township $658,000 a year in taxes, "much more than anything the Borough will have -- unless Palmer Square is expanded." "Jasna Polana" could bring in $400,000 a year.

The $1.8 million Benson Building (and that's not a final figure) will only be counted for three-fourths of 1980. Calculations haven't even been done yet on various Hillier projects, Mr. Robson said.

Spread May Continue. Even if consolidation had passed, of course, these 1980 figures would prevail because consolidation would not have taken effect until 1981, Mr. Bleiman points out. But he repeats his warning of a continuing spread between the two communities.

Mr. Smoyer and Mrs. Reed said this week that neither Borough Council nor Township Committee had begun talking about various recommendations made by the Consolidation Commission for consideration if consolidation failed. State law required the elected Commission to report to governing bodies.

Developers of 228-Acre 'Princeton Ridge' Told Their Plans Have 9 'Significant Deficiencies'

Nine "significant deficiencies in all major aspects" of Gibbs and Hill's "Princeton Ridge" development have been outlined by the Environmental Design Review Committee, accompanied by a recommendation to the Planning Board for disapproval, and a list of 62 other "deficiencies."

The 97-lot project, on 228 acres, is on the Planning Board agenda for Thursday, July 10. If the board needs more time, the hearing will be carried over to the work session of Monday, July 28. Sessions will be held in the Valley Road building at 8 p.m.

The EDRC's first finding is that the application doesn't conform to the new Master Plan. Beyond that, the EDRC doesn't accept Gibbs and Hill's argument that "completeness" implies that the application is technically correct. A "completed application," says the EDRC, simply means that all the documentation has been delivered, not that it is necessarily correct.

Neither does the EDRC agree with Gibbs and Hill that questions not yet answered will be answered either before, or at the time of, final approval. If this were the case, the EDRC argues, preliminary review would be "a fairly meaningless exercise."

Objections Defined. Gibbs and Hill "completely neglected" earlier recommendations to cluster some of the buildings and has laid out roads that do not follow natural contours, the EDRC says. The application doesn't show how Gibbs and Hill will handle what the EDRC regards as the "marginal capacities" of parts of the sewer line, has not presented written evidence from Elizabethtown Water that the company approves the proposed distribution system, nor written approval from the fire company nor any indication on the plans of where hydrants would be placed.

Also, the EDRC report says, the application does not show steep slopes, and doesn't show where houses, parking and driveways would be located. The EDRC does, however, agree with Gibbs and Hill that detention basins required under the Township's old flood control regulations, are unnecessarily large and should be re-designed.

Eleven of the remaining "deficiencies" concern sewers. The EDRC asks Gibbs and Hill "once again" to find out whether Princeton Ridge could be served with a trunk line along Cherry Valley Road leading to the Montgomery Township treatment plant. Also, the EDRC points out that since proposed pumping stations will be privately maintained, Gibbs and Hill must show how sewage from existing homes surrounded by the development but not part of it, will be handled.

Not everything on the list of 62 is a "deficiency." In several cases, the EDRC only reminds the developer of certain requirements; for example, that New Jersey State Department of Environmental Protection approval prior to preliminary Planning Board approval is necessary when developments have more than 50 lots; that the application must be approved by the Delaware & Raritan Canal Commission and, where culverts are concerned, the Mercer County engineer's Office.

Soil erosion and sediment control plans are "unsatisfactory," the EDRC says, adding that state Soil Conservation Service standards must be used.

Because the development is so close to Montgomery Township, the EDRA believes Montgomery should be notified before the public hearing.

MAN CHARGED

to Town Shop Robbery. A Palmer Square resident has been charged by Borough Det. Gerald Patterson with the June 4 robbery of the Town Shop, 67 Palmer Square, in which $3,102 in cash, jewelry and liquor were stolen.

Miguel Ortiz, 18, was later released in $5,000 bail to await a hearing in court here July 16.

Ortiz was arrested early Monday morning not long after Township police called at 2:08 to relay the report of a prowler on the rooftop at 20 Nassau Street. Sgt. Thomas Procaccino and Ptl. William Hunter saw the prowler and ordered him to come down. The prowler, later allegedly identified as Ortiz, complied.

Police said they found in his possession several screwdrivers and a small quantity of marijuana. Bail on the charges of possession of burglary tools and under 25 grams of marijuana was set at $2,500.

As the investigation continued, Ortiz was charged with the Town Shop entry. A search warrant to his apartment on Palmer Square was executed Monday. Police report that they recovered several hundred dollars worth of merchandise allegedly stolen from the shop.

Charged With Forgery. A Trenton resident, Paul Sherman 3d, 23, has been charged with forgery and theft. He faces a court hearing August 20.

Sherman is alleged to have stolen a $125 check from an employee at the Nassau Inn and cashed it Thursday at the First National Bank. Bank officials called police and supplied a description.

Sherman returned to the bank on Monday and was arrested and charged by Det. William Fitch.

CAMPAIGN CONTINUES

By Clergy against Hospital. Seven of the ten Princeton clergy who have expressed concern about the Medical Center, its security guards and possibly others on the Center staff, met on Monday with representatives of the guards and a former employee of the Center to hear the employees present their case.

The clergy then agreed to meet early next week and throughout the summer "to plan strategy," according to the Rev. Jack Johnson of Princeton Methodist Church.

"We believe problems exist regarding the Center's treatment of these persons," he said. "We see ourselves as reconcilers, identifying with the plight of the guards."

Security guards charge that the Medical Center has denied them cost-of-living increases granted to other employees, because the guards voted last year to form a union.

"We spent three hours Monday just listening," the Rev. Mr. Johnson said. "Now we'll meet again, and decide how to address this situation and share it with the broader Princeton community. We'll also be talking with the trustees."

Those who attended, besides the Rev. Mr. Johnson, were John Crocker (Trinity); Blan Aldridge (Nassau Presbyterian); Mark Pickett (Christ Congregation); Leon Gipson (Mt. Pisgah A.M.E.) and Rabbi Melvin Glatt (Jewish Center). Absent were the Rev. Margot Pickett of Christ Congregation; Edward Frost, Unitarian, and Wallace Alston, Nassau Presbyterian.

$4,500 WATCH STOLEN

From Golf Bag. A 14K gold, Swiss-made wristwatch, valued at $4,500, was stolen Thursday from a golf bag at the Springdale Golf Club.

The victim, a Township resident, told police that he had left the bag unattended for approximately ten minutes near the parking area of the club.

A 10-foot fiberglass diving board was stolen Saturday from the pool area of a Cleveland Lane home. Police report that the $300 board had been left at the pool, waiting to be installed.

Between 6 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. Thursday, $450 in cash was stolen from the trunk of the car of a Township resident. The car was parked in the Engineering Quadrangle lot off Olden Street and there was no evidence of any forced entry, police said.

Patio furniture, including two lounge chairs ($169 each), two arm chairs ($80 each) and a concrete umbrella base ($80) were stolen last week from the side of an Elm Road home.

The same day — Thursday — five calculators valued at $25 each were stolen from five separate desks in a Chambers Street office. There was no forced entry.

A disabled car left unlocked overnight off the side of Breuere's Hill, Route 206, in the Township, was looted. When owner James Rankin of West Trenton returned Thursday morning he discovered that two suitcases valued at $100 each, a $180 AM-FM stereo cassette radio and 5 tapes ($25) were missing.

A Red Oak Row resident, Jeremy Clarke, reported the theft this week of a $30 racing mirror from the side of his car which was parked in the lot near Mulberry Row. A second mirror was broken, police said, in an apparent attempt to steal it, too.

There were two wallet thefts. A 20-minute swim at the Broadmead Swim Club pool proved expensive for a Lower Harrison Street resident on Friday. When he went to retrieve his wallet containing $100 from a grassy area adjacent to the pool, it was gone. After searching the area for some time, the victim found his wallet in another area with his personal papers intact but minus the money.

An employee of Greene Hall on the university campus listed the theft of her wallet from her office between noon and 1 p.m. last week. She lost $5 and credit cards.

And there has been no let-up in the number of stolen bicycles. Five more were taken in the Borough last week.

A $213, 10-speed model, owned by a Township resident, was taken Monday from the rear of the Princeton University Press; a $200 10-speed was stolen the previous day from a Mercer Street porch; another 10-speed, valued at $200, was removed from a College Road garage on Saturday; and earlier in the week a $70 3-speed was taken near the Dinky Station on University Place, and a $150 model, whose locking chain had been cut, was stolen on Prospect Avenue.

$1,900 IS STOLEN

From Buxton's Restaurant. Approximately $1,900 was stolen this week from Buxton's Restaurant on Nassau Street.

Between 11:30 Monday night and 7:05 Tuesday morning, someone entered the building by unknown means, police said. Once inside, the intruder entered the manager's office by prying open the door. A cash box was removed from the office and taken to the basement, where it was forced open.

A Mercer Street home was entered and robbed of approximately $1,600 worth of items, including an antique wall clock, silver-plated coffee pot and candlestick holders.

Entry was gained through a rear basement door. Police were notified of the theft Monday evening.

Thefts in Township. There were two entries in the Township and in each instance the value of the missing items is unknown.

A home on Winant Road was entered by way of a rear patio door and several drawers in a pantry area and dining room were opened. Ptl. Robert Nielsen and Det. Frank Boccanfuso are conducting the investigation. Police say they do not know what was stolen.

Several drawers and cabinets were opened in various rooms in a Ridgeview Cicle home, where there were no signs of a forced entry.

It appears that several pieces of silver flatware were taken, but guns, stereo equipment and TVs were not disturbed. A housesitter told police that he had locked the house at 8:30 in the morning.

One theft in the Townsbip had a happy ending. Police received a call at 9:15 Thursday evening that a thief had entered the unlocked front door of a Sassafras Row apartment and taken a purse that had been left on the hallway floor, six feet from the front door.

The following day the purse was found in woods behind the apartment with everything intact -- including the $18 it had contained.

"I think someone got scared and changed his mind," commented Chief Frederick Porter. Ptl. Robert Buchanan

Summer Theatre's First Play of New Season, 'Devil's Disciple,' Offers Fun and Fireworks

SCENE FROM SHAW PLAY: A dramatic moment in the first act of "The Devil's Disciple," the Bernard Shaw comedy-drama which is the opening bill at Princeton Summer Theatre on the University campus. (John W H Simpson Photo)

Summer theatre is back in Princeton, alive and well. A near-capacity opening-night audience in Hamilton-Murray Theatre proved that the season has been eagerly awaited, and the renamed but veteran-managed Princeton Summer Theatre did not disappoint.

Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple" launched the season. By the time this notice appears, five performances will remain -- evenings at 8 from Thursday through Sunday and a 2:30 matinee on Sunday.

"The Devil's Disciple" is fun and fireworks. To some it will come as a pleasant surprise to have a light-hearted look at a famous moment in American history, the advance through New England of General Burgoyne's British army in 1777.

Most of the play is brisk melodrama. Shaw's wit guarantees plenty of laughter. Although ideas of considerable gravity get argued, the action doesn't stop while the author sermonizes, as sometimes happens with this playwright.

Conflict Abounds. Another plus is the presence of two unforgettable characters. One is the hero, or quasi-hero, Dick Dudgeon, a man loathed, feared and condemned by the good people of his neighborhood, a man who has deliberately sworn to stand up for the devil and his works, a man who faces his hour of trial in an unusual way. The other is "Gentleman Johnny" Burgoyne, as urbane and philosophically witty a man as ever wore uniform, though not exactly a professional soldier's soldier.

The play crackles with conflict. Violent and continuous is the conflict between Dick and his pious relatives, most particularly his godly, uncompromising mother. Dick invites conflict with the minister, Anthony Anderson, but is somewhat rebuffed as Mr. Anderson insists on treating Dudgeon as a human being rather than a monster. ("There is something in you that I respect," complains Dick, "and that makes me desire to have you for my enemy.")

There is conflict between Anderson and his young wife Judith about how to behave to Dick Dudgeon. And Judith's hatred and fear of Dick are demonstrated in a delightful scene when, alone with Dudgeon, she obeys her husband's injunction to give the visitor his tea.

Always present is the theme of conflict between the Yankees and the invading redcoats. Finally there is the conflict of contrasting personalities between General Burgoyne and the truculent, trained-by-the-book Major Swindon in perhaps the funniest scene in the play.

A Key Scene. What separates certain characters in a play from the others is their capacity to grow. In "The Devil's Disciple" the two who develop are Mr. and Mrs. Anderson. Hence the scene in which they discuss and later entertain Dick Dudgeon – a scene which some viewers feel delays the action overlong until the arrival of the arresting soldiers – is vital to an understanding of the way this husband and this wife think and the way they change.

Dudgeon himself does not really alter. One may think differently about him as the play reveals different aspects of his character, but they were part of him from the beginning.

Spirit and vigor are director Cary Mazer's gifts to the production. There is a nice blend of drama, humor, and sympathy with the human predicament.

In Tom Burka he has a persuasive actor whose Dick Dudgeon is strong enough to carry the play. He is commanding in his crudity, his independence, his anger at the treatment poor bastard Essie has received, his defiance of the military hierarchy, and always in his honesty, as when he admits he does not know the reason for some of his actions.

A Wife's Dilemma. Kellie Easterling, who has illumined the Theatre Intime stage in leading roles by Tennessee Williams, Shakespeare and Anouilh, has a different kind of assingment as Judith Anderson. She is especially good in the early scenes, shaken by conflicting impulses of fear, Christian duty, loyalty to her husband, and inability to follow his liberal example.

Leonard Galla's Anderson is a man of patience and forgiveness, direct, friendly, confident in the power of his goodness. How could he attach weight to old Mrs. Dudgeon's warning that a man who marries so pretty a wife has no true calling to be a minister? My only cavil with Galla's performance is that he looks too young; the significant 20 years between him and his youthful bride don't show.

A little alteration of make-up would also benefit James Goldin's Burgoyne. The general was 55 at the time of the play, with years of experience at finding fault and chewing out hapless subordinates. Goldin speaks the speeches with the relish any actor must feel to have such lines to speak, but he doesn't look as if he has lorded it over people for a generation.

'Devil's Disciple'

Nice bits are contributed by Dale Coye as a cockney sergeant; by Ted Horton as the not quite bright brother, Christie Dudgeon; by Molly Hickok as the child of nature, Essie; and by Daniel Klotz as Lawyer Hawkins. Shaw himself was pretty hard on two of his characters, the testy Major Swindon and the utterly unlovable Mrs. Dudgeon. Brian Jones brings fuming spirit to the former, while Cinny Strickland does what can be done for the latter with the help of the angriest set of clenched jaws I think I have ever seen.

Finally, is it uncharitable to suggest that one reason Burgoyne lost his campaign was the extreme youth of his private soldiers? Some of those redcoats are definitely below the draft age, but, young or not, those drummers can certainly drum!

The small Murray Theatre stage renders impossible the frenzied climax to the hanging scene which Shaw calls for, with masses of townspeople responding to the emotions of the moment. It also poses difficulties to the scene designers, which Matt Mead and the director have cirumvented ingeniously by the use of a huge fireplace, a long table and chairs, candles at appropriate moments, a large Union Jack at other appropriate times, the whole played in front of, and leaving visible, a large map of New England done in 18th century style by James Goldin. The lighting is by Jane Kauffman, sound by Jon Tenney, and costumes are under the care of Carol Ellen Tate.

—Herbert McAneny

'SORCERER' DUE

At Murray Theatre. Princeton Summer Theatre will continue its season with one of Gilbert and Sullivan's earliest operettas, "The Sorcerer." The show will open on Thursday, July 10, and run through July 20. There will be five performances each week, Thursday to Sunday evenings at 8 and a Sunday matinee at 2:30.

Less well known than "The Mikado" or "Pirates of Penzance," "The Sorcerer" was written in 1877 and contains the same elements of satire and melodic distinctiveness as the later work. Written while Gilbert and Sullivan were still on speaking terms, "The Sorcerer" reflects this close collaboration in the harmony between words and music.

Dale Coye, who staged "Patience" last year at Theatre Intime and the revue "Cox and Box," written by Sullivan without Gilbert, will direct. Millie Massey, who had the title role in "Patience" is doing duty this summer as the pianoplayer.

In "The Sorcerer," a small English village is turned upside down when everyone from the local vicar to the Baron is affected by an amorous potion slipped into the afternoon tea. The Sorcerer himself, John Wellington Wells, is at the center of the mischief, and remains one of the classic G&S comic roles.

Princeton Summer Theatre performs at Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus. The box office is open seven days a week from noon to 7, and tickets for "The Sorcerer" are available now. Call 452-8181 for reservations.

'NASHVILLE' BOOKED

As Single Feature. The three-hour film, "Nashville," will be shown as a single feature in the fourth week of Summer Cinema 80. It will play Kresge Auditorium on the University campus starting this Wednesday and continuing through Sunday.

Although the double-feature format has been temporarily set aside, McCarter has added a 25-minute short subject, "Beauty Knows No Pain." It describes the process of selecting the Kilgore College Rangerettes, whom football audiences know from half-time shows. It outlines their testing and training ordeals symbolizing the importance of the "Rangerette Ideal" for these Texas girls in a scene where the results are posted, and winners and losers embrace with sobs and tears.

In "Nashville," director Robert Altman presents the audience with a combination of a country-western musical, a documentary on Nashville and American life, a melodrama and even a wry satirical look, to say nothing of the celebration of the film's own 24 performers.

Karen Black, Keith Carradine, Shelly Duvall, Geraldine Chaplin and Lili Tomlin join with lesser-known performers like Barbara Harris and Henry Gibson and complete unknowns, such as Ronee Blakley, and Gwen Welles in this "milestone in American film-making" (critic Pauline Kael).

"Play It Again Sam." A pair of Street Theatre regulars, John Wible and Linda Christie, will play the leading roles in ST's first mobile theatre offering of the summer, "Play It Again, Sam." When ST's production of this Woody Allen comedy was first presented in 1975, it drew the largest audience in ST history, reason enough to play it again.

Others in the cast will be Dave Hummel, who will play the ghost of Humphrey Bogart; Megan Pensack, Allison Amon, John Fremer III, Ann Carlson, June Fremer and Barbara Heroz. Director is Deborah Bellow.

Opening night will be Friday, July 18, at Maurice Hawk School in West Windsor, followed by performances Saturday, July 19, at Riverside School in Princeton; Sunday, July 20 at Quarry Park, Princeton, and Saturday, July 26, at Princeton High School. All performances are at 8, except for the one at Quarry Park which begins at 7:30.

MUSIC CAMP PLANNED

At All Saints Church. The fourth annual All Saints' Music Camp will be held this year from August 11 through 22 at All Saints' Church, Monday through Friday from 9 to 1. The cost is $50 for the camp which totals 40 hours of instruction and recreation and is open to children entering grades 2 through 7.

Three classes will be offered: choir, Orff instruments, and art. The choir will prepare the musical "David and the Giants" for performance on Friday evening, August 22. The class in Orff instruments centers not only on mallet played instruments, but also on rhythmic and movement activities.

The art class will explore Bible heroes who had to make difficult decisions, (through such media as puppets, murals, banners, etc.) There will also be a lunch-recreation period.

The camp director and choir director is Harriet McCleary, a private voice teacher in Princeton, who took her master's at Westminster Choir College. The art director is Karlene Paxton, a K-2 teacher at Stuart Country Day School, whose master's is from Rutgers University. The Orff instructor is Shirley Heath who is a candidate for a music education degree at Westminster Choir College and who has completed the Orff study at Westminster.

The deadline for registrations is August 1, after which the registration fee will be $55.

WIND ENSEMBLE DUE

For Chamber Series. The Dorian Wind Quintet (Minus One) will present the third in the Princeton University summer chamber concert series on Tuesday at 8:30 in the North Court of the Graduate College. Works by Handel, Villa-Lobos, Berger, Mozart, Smith and Francaix will be performed.

The Dorian Wind Quintet, which has distinguished itself in the baroque, classical and romantic repertoire, has done much to encourage contemporary composers to write for winds. The ensemble was organized in 1961 during summer season at the Berkshire Music Center under a Fromm Foundation grant and was described by Aaron Copeland as "an outstanding group of young instrumentalists" for its performance at Tanglewood that season.

The Quintet made its New York debut in October, 1961 to critical acclaim from the press. Since then, the Ensemble has played concerts widely in the United States, Europe and Canada, including a three month tour of Africa for the U.S. State Department.

In the event of rain, the concert will be held in Alexander Hall. If the weather is uncertain, call 924-2353 the day of the concert to find out where the concert will be. The audience is advised to bring blankets or folding chairs, and there is free parking in the lot off Springdale Road.

The concerts are supported entirely by public contributions. Tax deductible donations may be sent to Summer Chamber Concerts, Woolworth Center, Princeton University, 08544. Checks should be made out to "Trustees of Princeton University." Names of all contributors will be listed on the programs.

All Saints' Youth Choir members Martha Graskamp and Susan Gray portray sailors in a musical, "Jonah and the Whale," directed by Harriet McCleery. Ms. McCleery will be directing a summer music camp at All Saints' during August, in which "David and the Giants" will be prepared for performance.

GUITARIST TO PERFORM

In Summer Sounds Series. Stanley Jordan, the young guitarist from Palo Alto, Calif., who is currently a senior at Princeton University, will give a concert Thursday, July 10, at 7:30 at Community Park North. This is the first of a series of five free outdoor concerts offered by the Summer Sounds program.

This year, all concerts will be held at Community Park North in an attempt to encourage the use of the new facility reached by the Mountain Avenue exit off Bayard Lane. The concerts will be held on consecutive Thursdays, with the following nights being reserved as raindates. All concerts will begin at 7:30.

Mr. Jordan has developed an innovative approach to the guitar which has brought him praise from jazz greats Benny Carter and Dizzy Gillespie and avant guardists such as Anthony Davis. Carter invited Jordan to display his talents as a guest soloist with the Benny Carter-Dizzy Gillespie Sextet at its Alexander Hall performance this spring.

In addition to being an outstanding musician, Mr. Jordan is an accomplished electrical engineer and has devoted much of his energies to developing gadgets to increase his understanding of music and help him practice and compose. One of his inventions is a "frequencer" into which he can program any sequence of notes and have them played back at any speed and pitch. He is also at work on a synthesizer which can be hooked into a video screen to produce simultaneous visual-aural images.

Despite his involvement with electronics, Mr. Jordan prefers to perform with as little equipment as possible, using only a guitar which he adapted to his new approach and a small guitar. In his "touch" technique, both hands are used to sound notes on the

New Virus Affecting Dogs in Mercer County Believed to Have Mutated from Cat Distemper

Veterinarians in the Princeton area are receiving maoy calls from dog owners anxious about reports of a virulent virus that has struck a number of dogs in Mercer County, primarily in the Trenton area.

Dr. Richard Robertson of Lawrence Hospital for Animals on Princeton Pike says his phones "have been going crazy" with calls from clients requesting vaccination against Parvo virus, a disease that afflicts a dog's small and large intestine causing vomiting, loose stools and a loss of appetite. But in Dr. Robertson's view, the virus is "not very prominent," and he says he has seen only six or eight cases since January.

The virus, which was unknown two years ago, causes rapid dehydration in dogs hut is treatable and not usually fatal if caught in time, he says. Treatment consists of administering fluids and food intravenously while the body develops antibodies to kill the virus.

From research carried on at Baker Institute at Cornell University two years ago, it is thought that Parvo virus is a form of feline distemper that has mutated and now affects dogs. Because it is a new disease, it affects young puppies as well as older dogs, since neither have developed an immunity to the virus.

Six Poppies Have Died. The Cornell research determined that the feline distemper vaccine also protects against Parvo virus and established the proper dosage. Although no vaccine made of the Parvo virus has yet been developed, doctors regularly use the feline distemper vaccine, Dr. Robertson said.

Trenton veterinarians have reported "an unusually high" number of cases of Parvo virus, with one hospital saying that about 50 dogs have been treated in the last two weeks, including six puppies who died. Mrs. Jeanne R. Graves of Small Animal Rescue League reports no incidence of the disease among her dogs. Dr. Allen Fine of Princeton Animal Hospital on Route 1 says that although a definitive diagnosis requires virus isolation and other laboratory procedures, there has not been a significant increase of dogs coming in with enteric problems over the past several weeks.

Dr. Robertson feels that since the incidence in this area is not very high, he does not recommend immunization by vaccine unless a dog will be entering shows, or spending much time in a kennel, or undergoing training, or is in a household with three or more dogs. But he says that dogs who are recovering from the disease are still shedding active virus in their stools and thus can transmit the disease to neighborhood dogs who sniff the stool.

Dr. Robertson does not think the vaccine is necessary for the family dog kept at home in a fenced area, but thinks it might be indicated for dogs allowed to run. His hospital has vaccinated some 300 dogs since January, he says, most of whom are show dogs.

WINNERS LISTED

In Great Road Race. Tripper Blaicher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Blaicher of Princeton Junction, was the winner in the junior division of this year's Mercer County Soap Box Derby. The Great Road Race II took place last Saturday on the Great Road East.

Having placed third in last year's Derby, Tripper led a field of 20 in the junior division to become junior champion. His prize is an all-expense paid week in Akron, Ohio, where the All American Soap Box Derby will be held on August 16 with winners from all over the country.

This year's Mercer County Soap Box Derby had a senior division for the first time, with some nine racers between age 12 and 15 going down the hill in custom designed cars. The winner was Andy Fischer of Trenton, who will also compete in the nationals in Akron.

Placing second in the junior division was Jesse Lawson of Lambertville, followed by Chris Strahle of Princeton Junction, third; Mike Basso of Yardville, fourth; Keith Meyerriecks of Branchville, fifth; and Tom Prunier of East Windsor, sixth.

George Hahn of Mercerville, who was the junior champion last year, took second place in the senior division, followed by Suzanne Pietrowski of Trenton, third; Joe Sobel of Roebling, fourth; and Gene Rogers and Merrill Blaicher, both of Princeton Junction, fifth and sixth, respectively.

TWO BICYCLES STOLEN

Trenton Trio Charged. Three Trenton residents face charges from two Princeton police departments, as the result of a chance observation by police of a partially-opened car trunk.

Barbara J. Ross, 19, Charles Fowler, 21, and a 16-year old juvenile, all of the same Trenton address, have been charged by Township police with possession of stolen property.

Ptl. Renn Kaminski and Ptl. William Potts were on routine patrol at 1 a.m. last week when they noticed a parked car on Alexander Street with its trunk partially open ... revealing a bicycle.

A subsequent investigation revealed there were two bicycles inside and police said they had been stolen from 11 Dickinson Street. Township police also found in the suspects' possession the cable locks of both bicycles and a bolt cutter.

After being charged, the three were turned over to Borough police, who charged them with theft. Fowler and Ross were later released in $100 bail; the juvenile was taken to the Mercer County Youth House in Trenton.

BICYCLIST IS ACCOSTED

On Edgerstoune Road. A summer resident of the Hun Road was accosted Saturday night while riding her bicycle on Edgerstoune.

Police report that she had noticed a light blue car drive past her around 11 p.m. and then turn around. The car followed her, stopped and the driver got out and walked toward her.

He asked for directions to a "Lynnbrook Road," police said. Then after mentioning several other roads, he reached out and grabbed the victim by the shoulders, drew her to him and tried to embrace her. She screamed.

The suspect ran back to his car and drove off. He was described as a white male, 35 to 40, 5-7 to 5-8, with short dark hair, a small moustache, and a large stomach. He was wearing a light-colored sport shirt, dark trousers and dress shoes. Ptl. William Potts investigated.

New State Trooper, One of 30 Women, Carries on in Long Family Tradition

The great-granddaughter of a former Borough Police officer has graduated from the New Jersey State Police Training School in Sea Girt.

She is Lori Ann Hennon of East Windsor Township, whose great-great grandfather, James Hennon Sr., was Princeton University security chief, and whose great-grandfather, James Hennon Jr., a former Borough patrolman. Her brother, James Hennon IV, is an East Windsor Township patrolman.

Trooper Hennon is one of 30 women who are the survivors of a class of 104 women who began the grueling 20-week paramilitary trooper training course last February as part of a demonstration project to test the ability of women to perform as state troopers. Only two other women had graduated from earlier co-educational classes.

The class of women troopers was inducted under a 1976 consent decree between the Federal Government and New Jersey to get more women in state police ranks. Col. Clinton L. Pagano, the State Police Superintendent, said, "virtually every state in the nation" is interested in New Jersey's experiment. However, he acknowledged there were still mixed emotions in state police ranks about the inclusion of 30 women in a force of 1,900 officers.

On Monday, the women began a 30-day patrol with a trooper-coach serving as observer. After that, they will go on regular highway patrol alone in a car. They are assigned to 17 different barracks in the state and will earn $14,932 a year.

POLICEWOMAN LEAVING

Was First of Six Here. Ptl. Monica Sheehan of Somerset, who joined the Borough police department in October, 1975, as its first female member, is leaving hte force.

"I think she found it a very rewarding and extremely challenging career," said Chief Michael Carnevale, who added that Ptl. Sheehan has no definite plans for the future.

"She's completed one phase of life's ambitions and now she's seeking others."

To fill her position, the Borough department will conduct a testing program for men and women interested in a career in law enforcement. "We have always encouraged female applicants," said Chief Carnevale.

The testing procedure will begin with a written examination at Princeton High School July 17 at 6 p.m. The exam is open to any person 18 to 35, who is a U.S. citizen and New Jersey resident. Applicants must also possess a valid N.J. driver's license, have 20-20 vision with

TWO DRIVERS TICKETED

After Kingston Road Accident. Two teenage drivers have received summonses from police, following a collision early last week on Kingston Road at the intersection of Prospect Avenue. Neither was injured.

Andrew J. Kulinski, 17, 8 Lawrenceville Road, was charged with drunken driving. He was found in a driveway at 706 Kingston Road -- two tenths of a mile from the accident scene -- in the process of replacing a front tire. Ptl. Mark Emann, the investigating officer, reported that he detected an odor of alcohol on the youth's breath.

The second driver was identified as Christopher McDonald, 19, 41 Maple Street. He was charged with giving an improper signal.

Police report they later learned that both drivers were heading home about 11:30 p.m. after having stopped at the Kings Inn in Kingston where a six-pack of beer was allegedly purchased. The six pack was later found -- unopened -- near the 706 driveway.

McDonald, traveling in front, told police that he had put his signal on to turn left onto Prospect. Kulinski, traveling behind, said that he did not see any signal.

His car was already in the passing lane when McDonald made his turn. Police said that McDonald was later to claim when he turned his signal on it was only for a short time. His car had to be towed away.

Kulinski was taken to police headquarters and later released to his father in $25 bail. He is scheduled to appear in Township court July 17.

WOMAN IN HISTORY

Focus of Lectures. A four-part lecture series during July will focus on women as the largest single group that has been "left out" of American history. The lectures, which are sponsored by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, the Princeton University Department of History, and the National Endowment for the Humanities, will be given on consecutive Monday nights at McCormick Hall, Princeton University.

They are part of a four-week Institute on Women in American History that will be attended by history faculty from all over the continental United States, Alaska and Hawaii. The Institute is designed to produce a handbook that will identify the achievements of women and provide methods for integrating such material into college history courses.

The lecture series is open to the public and will feature distinguished scholars of American history who are recognized experts in the field of women's history. The schedule for the series is Monday, July 7, keynote address by Prof. Anne F. Scott, Duke University, "Woman's Place is in the History Books"; July 14, Prof. Mary B. Norton, Cornell University, "Looking at the Past through Women's Eyes"; July 21, Dr. Barbara Sicherman, Editor, "Notable American Women," "Women's Career Patterns, 1890-1940"; and July 28, Prof. William H. Chafe, Duke University, "Women and World War II." All lectures will begin at 8.

Thieves Enter 20 Nassau St. by Skylight, Depart Same Way with $80,000 in Jewelry

An estimated $80,000 in watches, rings and bracelets, much of it in gold, was stolen last week from five jewelry cases at the Henry R. Kalmus store, 20 Nassau Street. All but two of seven display cases were ransacked.

The entry was discovered Wednesday morning by the owner of the Record Exchange, located next door. According to Detectives James Agins and Gerald Patterson, who are investigating, the thieves apparently entered the 20 Nassau Street building, which is honeycombed with business offices on its top two floors, through a roof skylight sometime late Tuesday evening or early Wednesday morning.

After lowering themselves to a third-floor hallway, they walked down two flights of stairs to enter the storeroom area of the Record Exchange. Police say they don't know if a key was used or if a door was left unlocked.

Once inside the main room of the record store, the thieves managed to break through a wall leading to the rear of the jewelry store. They left behind several tools, including hacksaw blades and a flashlight.

Police speculate that once the thieves had looted the jewelry cases, they left the building the same way they had entered.

They added that $350 was stolen from the Record Exchange. Chief Michael Carnevale commented that "police have made considerable progress so far," in their investigation.

More than one person is believed to have taken part in the theft. Agreeing that it appeared to be the work of professionals, Chief Carnevale remarked: "They certainly had the lay of the land; they knew what they were doing and where they were going."

Princeton Woman and Her Mother Return to Frankfurt, Germany, As Guests of City They Fled during Nazi Persecution in 1938

Although Ruth Frank had been back several times over the years to Frankfurt, Germany, where she grew up, this trip was different. This time she was confronting emotions she hadn't wanted to think about and memories of the time when she and her family were forced as Jews to flee Nazi persecution.

Now a professor of psychology at Bucks County Community College and a Stuart Road resident, Dr. Frank -- with her 80-year-old mother, who lives in Miami -- was part of a group of 106 Jewish refugees who were brought back to Frankfurt earlier this summer as guests of the city they had fled some 40 years before. The two-week trip for all 106 was paid for with a $120,000 grant from the city council.

Ruth Frank
A Journey to the Past

No effort had been spared to make the stay a pleasant one and the group comfortable. They were personally greeted by the mayor aboard the airplane before debarking, put up at the best hotel and feted at dinners and receptiona. They were treated to a boat trip down the Main River, a performance at the opera, and a play. There were day trips into the surrounding countryside, and everywhere the media followed, making newa of their every movement.

And yet it was a difficult, emotion-filled journey for the participants, many of whom were elderly, and many survivors of concentration camps. Some were very appreciative, but some experienced real grief, Dr. Frank says. Others "managed to be gracious about what was being offered, feeling that the city was trying to do something nice."

Pleasant Memories. Dr. Frank and her mother found themselves walking for up to two hours at a stretch, propelled by a compulsion to revisit the old places. They found the first-house in which they lived after moving to Frankfurth from Cologne, where Ruth had been born. Of the two cherry trees she remembered from childhood, one was still standing. At the bakery where she used to stop for an ice cream on the way home from school, the woman proprietor recognized her, and that was pleasing.

They also went back to the building that had been her grandfather's smock-manufacturing plant, where her father had also worked. There, as a 16-year-old apprentice learning a trade that would be useful in the United States if the family were able to escape Hitler's Germany, Dr. Frank witnessed the rampage of violence against Jews and their property for the two nights and a day known as Kristalnacht.

On November 9, 1938, mobs were shipped in by train from another district on the theory that it is easier to destroy something that is unfamiliar. Shouting epithets, the crowd surged down the streets, smashing windows of those shops and businesses owned by Jews. While they stormed into the family factory, throwing the sewing machines out into the street, Ruth's father was hiding in the attic.

The next day, when the coast was clear, the family was able to smuggle him into a hospital where a doctor friend agreed to look after his diabetes until emigration papers could be obtained. Aided by an uncle in New York, and the fact that Ruth's grandfather had been awarded the Iron Cross in World War I, they managed to get the proper papers by January. Setting sail from Hamburg for America lo March were Ruth and her younger brother, their pareots and grandparents.

Those Who Could Not Leave. Left behind were family members not as lucky as they were, or considered too old by the U.S. and thus not able to get a number -- her grandmother'a sisters and brothers who were never seen again. Although executions in Nazi Germany took place on a mass scale, the Germans kept careful individual records. Dr. Frank and her husband Ulrich, a childhood schoolmate in Frankfurt who fled to New York with his family two years before she did, have in their possession the notice in Czech giving the exact time his grandfather died in the concentration camp at Theresienstadt, Czechoslovakia.

It is through this penchant for record keeping that the city of Frankfurt has kept in touch with its former citizens, many of whom fled to Israel. The Franks have moved from New York to New England to Ohio and Pennsylvania as they pursued advanced degrees, moved up in their respective careers -- Ulrich switched from aeronautical to bio-medical engineering and is now with Hoffman La Roche -- and raised two daughters and a son. Nevertheless, since the late 60s they have recieved a book about Frankfurt as a gift from the mayor each year at Christmas.

Dr. Frank says that this group of 106, brought back in recognition of the contribution of Jews to the culture of the city and as a gesture of reconciliation, is the first of an estimated 1,000 that the city plans to invite back in groups of 100 or so. There have been similar efforts in Berlin and Affshaffenberg, she says.

Although she was cautioned by colleagues not to expect people who have been hurt so deeply to want to respond, Dr. Frank prepared a research questionnaire and sent it to all those on the trip. Only 24 answered her questions; others wrote saying they just wanted to forget.

Painful Encounter. Poignant stories emerged from the trip. One man returning to his house discovered that a former storm trooper by whom he had once been chased was still living upstairs. Another couple had each lost a spouse in a concentration camp before they married each other. Dr. Frank's mother was reunited with several of her schoolmates.

Pointing up the reconciliation theme was a visit scheduled for the group as a whole to a Jewish-Christian home for the elderly, established by a wealthy industrialist. This home has an infirmary for nursing care, a chapel as well as a temple, and both kosher and non-kosher food, served unabtrusively to the residents who eat together and partake in all activities together. Dr. Frank sees this as a symbol of what Germany is trying to accomplish today.

She returned, she said, "emotionally upheavaled," and stepped off the plane still speaking German as she had all during the trip. It was a necessary trip, she thinks, but adds with her ready smile, "I'm glad to be home. I always knew where I belonged."

A GIFT FROM PENNINGTONIANS TO PENNINGTON SCHOOL: A wood collage of Pennington School and O'Hanlon Hall, the latter destroyed by fire in January, rests on top of an architect's model of the new administration end classroom building to replace O'Hanlon. Ground has already been broken. The collage, auctioned off on "Pennington Day" this spring, was presented to the school by Gordon L. Youngs (right) of Pennington. At left are Headmaster Donald G. Miller end artist Marge Tovey, a Pennington resident and a teacher in the community's Toll Gate School. Proceeds from Pennington Day, which have been donated to the school's building fund, have passed the $22,000 mark.

MOBILE UNIT DONATED

To Pennington School. Dr. G. Donald Miller, headmaster of The Pennington School, has announced that the Commodities Corporation, Mt. Lucas Road, has donated its mobile offices to the school. The gift, valued at $12,000, will provide temporary classroom space until September, 1981, the scheduled date of completion of new classrooms at Pennington.

Spencer F. Barber, vice president of Commodities Corporation, represented the company and said the decision was made by corporation officials shortly after the fire in late January destroyed O'Hanlon Hall, the main building on the Pennington campus. O'Hanlon Hall contained 26 classrooms, offices, three apartments, and the main chapel as well as other facilities for faculty and students.

The mobile office, purchased by the company in 1976, contains almost 1200 square feet in space, has nine rooms for class or office use, and is fully carpeted and paneled. The unit contains auxiliary air conditioning and heating units and served as administrative offices for the corporation until a new structure was completed and occupied this past month.

3 CHARGES MADE

Against Man for Trespassing. James Carrow, 30, no known address, has been charged by police with trespassing three times last week at the Engineering Quadrangle.

Carrow was issued a summons each time — twice on Thursday and once on Friday.

Charles Toth, 56, North Post Road, Princeton Junction, was issued a summons last week for discharging a .22 rifle in the Borough — a violation of a Borough ordinance.

Responding to a call that someone was firing a weapon in the area of Nassau Street, Ptl. Ronald Holiday and Ptl. Chris Boutote located Toth firing the rifle at the rear of a house at 302 Nassau. They issued him a summons and confiscated his weapon.

Township police arrested Reginald E. Nutter, 23, of 21 Birch Avenue at his home Saturday and charged him with contempt of court for failing to pay a $25 motor vehicle fine.

Nutter was fined in Township Court June 5 for his involvement in an accident February 18 on Witherspoon Street. Police received a bench warrant for his arrest on June 23.

Robin Everette, 24, 116 Leigh Avenue, has been arrested and charged with being disorderly, following a disturbance late Thursday night at the Clay-John Street area.

Police report that a large number of people had assembled in the area and that some of them were acting in a boisterous manner. Everette, the only one arrested, faces a July 16 court appearance.

Annoying, Anonymous Telephone Calls Persist; Police Tips Tell What to Do When They Come

The annoying phone call – it's more wide spread, police admit, than a lot of people imagine.

One elderly Princeton resident, who became a victim about three weeks ago, asked TOWN TOPICS to call the public's attention to "this kind of thing." Telephone and police officials have told her, she said, that they can do nothing unless she can keep her tormentors on the line long enough so the call can be traced. But they're too smart for that, she said; they won't stay on that long.

The calls, from those whom she labels, "hoodlum kids" began three weeks ago. Usually in the afternoon, sometimes late at night. "You're nothing but a bunch of animals," she told one caller. "Who the hell cares," was the reply.

One caller identified herself as an employee of Social Security and asked, "Do you live alone?"

"I thought, that'a strange," the woman commented. "Who are you?"

"None of your business," was the reply.

As the calls continued, she once cried out: "Who are you, for God's sake! What do you want?"

The reply: "None of your goddamn business."

"I'm terrified," she said. "I've never been talked to like that.

What she should do, comments Borough Police Capt. Theodore Lewis, is just what the telephone directory advises on how to handle obscene or harrassing calls:

- Hang up at the first obscene word, or if the caller doesn't say anything.
- Give no information until the caller has been identified.
- If calls persist, call the police or a telephone service representative.

If the situation warrants, Chief Lewis said, the police can request that the phone company install a tap on the line which makes a record of every call. If an annoying call comes in, after the tap has been installed, the victim can tell police, "I got such a call at such a time and date," and the telephone company will have a record of the caller, no matter how short the call.

Even the police get quite a few annoying calls, Capt. Lewis reported. He himself, Michael Carnevale, the present chief and former chiefs have all been targets at one time or another, he said.

CAMPAIGN A SUCCESS: Paul Eggermann, chairman of the fund raising committee for the Newgrange School Building Fund, presents checks and pledges totalling $100,000 to Frances Benson and Lois Young, school directors. The sum, which represents contributions from parents and board members during the 1980 campaign, will be used to purchase a permanent building for Newgrange.

THREE FORUMS PLANNED

For Input From Elderly. Three community forums for the 1981 White House Conference on Aging have been scheduled in Princeton for July. Elders, either in organizations or in unaffiliated groups, are encouraged by the White House to hold additional community forums.

The scheduled forums will be held Monday at 1 at the Chestnut Street Firehouse, sponsored by the Senior Citizens Club; Wednesday, July 9, at 1:30 at Redding Circle community room, sponsored by the Senior Resource Center and the Princeton Community Village Association; and Wednesday, July 16, at 1 at Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church, Witherspoon and MacLean Streets, sponsored by the Mercer County Nutrition Project.

All Princeton seniors are invited to attend these forums. Children of elderly parents are also invited. The aim is to have public discussions of topics or issues of general concern to older citizens.

Some issues are economic security for older Americans, special problems of older women, health services, living environment, redress of imbalances among aged minorities, increase in productivity of older Americans. The White House conference will be directed toward general problems of the elderly rather than to isolated local issues.

Resolutions or recommendations of the Community Forums can be forwarded to David Dutch, County Office on Aging, 640 South Broad Street, Trenton; or to Jocelyn Helm, Senior Resource Center, Spruce Circle.

FOUR TRUSTEES NAMED

At University. The Board of Trustees of Princeton University has appointed four new members to the board. They are W. Michael Blumenthal, chairman of Burroughs Inc.; John T. Dorrance Jr., chairman of the Campbell Soup Co.; Derek A. Price, chairman of Starlaw Investments Ltd. of Montreal; and Marina von Neumann Whitman, vice president and chief economist for General Motors.

Mr. Blumenthal and Mrs. Whitman, both former Princeton residents, have been named charter trustees and will serve 10-year terms beginning in September. Mr. Price and Mr. Dorrance will serve four years each as term trustees.

Mr. Blumenthal assumed the chairmanship of Burroughs Inc., a Detroit computer and business machine firm, this spring. Previously he was secretary of the U.S. Treasury (1976-79) and before that held a succession of senior management positions with the Bendix Corp., including chairman, president and chief executive officer (1967-76).

He was vice president of Crown Cork International Corp. (1957-61) and from 1961 to 1967 held a variety of high-level government positions concerned with international trade, including chairman of the U.S. delegation to the Kennedy Round Table Trade Negotiations in Geneva.

Mrs. Whitman grew up in Princeton as the daughter of the late John von Neumann, the well-known mathematician and colleague of Einstein at the Institute for Advanced Study. A graduate of Miss Fine's School, she graduated summa cum laude from Radcliffe College in 1956 and earned her Ph.D. in economics from Columbia University in 1962. She was a member of the faculty at the University of Pittsburgh for six years and also served on the White House appointed Council of Economic Advisers.

She is currently on the selection committee for the Rockefeller Public Service Awards administered by the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton and is a member of the advisory council of the Economics Department. Bowen, Busy with Plans for Fund-Raising, To Be Off Campus for 2 Months Next Fall

President William G. Bowen of Princeton has announced that he will be away from the campus for much of September and October.

"In light of the importance to the University of the most careful advance planning for the capital campaign we expect to be launching within the next two years, including preparation of a 'case statement,'" he said, "I am going to be ... working primarily on preparations for the campaign and on next year's annual report." Dr. Bowen expects to be on campus only for trustee committee meetings in September and for the meeting of the full board in October.

Provost Neil L. Rudenstine will act on behalf of the president as necessary during his absence, including giving the address at Opening Exercises. Assistant to the President Dennis Sullivan and Aide to the President Marcia Snowden will work closely with Mr. Rudenstine in coordinating the work of the President's Office.

"We hope to avoid burdening the Provost with all of my own communications, as well as his own, during this two-month period," Dr. Bowen said, "while at the same time making it as easy as possible for the office to be informed of developments on a regular basis."

She is the wife of Thomas Eglin, Dean of Students at the Lawrenceville School, and the mother of two students presently at PDS, and two others who are alumnae of the school.

Other officers elected at the meeting were John D. Wallace, vice-chairman, Mrs. Neal W. O'Connor, secretary, and Walter F. Gips, Jr., reelected as treasurer.

TO APPEAL ONE . . .

Hospital to Wait on Other. The Medical Center will bypass Township Committee and carry an appeal of the Planning Board's denial of the Center's storage facility directly to Superior Court, the Center said this week.

The law gives such an option, and the Center had already been turned down by Committee when that body upheld the Township Zoning Board's denial of approval to build a medical office building on the corner of Witherspoon and Henry.

In that case, the Center has decided to wait and see what a new Hospital Zone creates for that Witherspoon-Henry corner.

The Planning Board turned down the Center's request to put up a storage building on the Center's Princeton House site, Mt. Lucas and Herrontown Roads. The structure was designed to provide storage for the Center Auxiliary, chiefly for bulk items used each year at the annual fete.

ART
In Princeton

LECTURES SCHEDULED

By Three Artists. Three contemporary artists will discuss their work at Princeton University in July under the auspices of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Two of the lectures will include performances of video art. The presentations are being made in connection with an NEH-sponsored summer seminar for college teachers conducted by Professor Sam Hunter of the Department of Art and Archeology. The lectures are free of charge and will be held in Room 101 of McCormick Hall (the Art Museum building).

On July 10 at 5, New York artist Larry Rivers will deliver a lecture, "Reminiscences," dealing with his life in art and recent work, with special attention to the genesis of one of his most familiar Pop Art themes, the "Dutch Masters Cigars" motif. Rivers shows his paintings regularly in New York, and he has been honored with a number of important museum retrospective exhibitions recently. Last year his autobiographical book, "Drawings and Digressions" (written with Carol Brightman), won the American Book Award for biography.

On July 14 at 5, Douglas Davis, art critic for Newsweek and a pioneer in video-performance art, will lecture on "Post-Modern Art," a topic drawn from an ongoing article series appearing in The Village Voice, and called "Post Post-Art. Where Do We Go From Here?" Davis will also show some of his shorter video tapes and will comment on the potential of the new medium, which has become an influential manifestation of art of the '70s and '80s.

On July 24 at 5:00, Nancy Holt will talk on "Site Works," her own monumental sculptural-architectural projects created for specific locations in the outdoor environment.

Openings in Art Classes

The July session of classes and workshops sponsored by the Princeton Art Association begins this week. Openings are available in classes in drawing, painting, printmaking, life drawing and sculpture for beginning and experienced students of all ages.

For information and registration, call 921-9173.

One of the recent works she will show is the brick tower called "30 Below," commissioned for the Winter Olympics at Lake Placid last year and now permanently installed there. She will also screen some of her shorter film and video works.

Holt bas long been recognized as a major contemporary artist. She is the widow of the late Robert Smithson, who was perhaps the best-known of the pioneer American Earthworks artists; he was the creator of "The Spiral Jetty" in the Great Salt Lake, Utah.

All of the guest speakers are coming to Princeton to take part in the curriculum of Hunter's summer seminar, devoted to the topic "Art Since Mid-Century." This is one of three eight-week seminars to be held at the university this summer under NEH auspices. The seminars provide college teachers with an opportunity for advanced study or research in their fields under the direction of a distinguished scholar.

PURCHASE ART ON VIEW

At Washington Crossing Park. Washington Crossing State Park will host a visual art show of works purchased by the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission earlier this year at the Mercer County Artists Exhibition '80. The show will be held at the Visitors Center in the Park beginning Friday and continuing until July 20.

The Purchase Award artists featured in the show are Phyllis Wright of Princeton for "Grid Number Two" a drawing; Helen Schwartz, also of Princeton, for her silkscreen "Mojave;" Richard Albe of Ewing for his large textured white painting "Front Street News Stand;" George Chapman, of Trenton State College, for his graphite on paper work entitled "New England Elegy;" an oil on paper painting "Mess Hall" by Marge Miccio of Trenton; and "Toronto Building" a gouache painting by Jonnylee Gore of Pennington.

This activity is part of the Summer Parks Program, sponsored by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and the Department of Environmental Protection. Another exhibit of Mercer County Artists sponsored in conjunction with the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission will be held August 16 through September 1.

For further information, call the NJSCA at 292-6130.

The award is made from donations to the fund and annual interest earnings. Miss Duffy will attend Boston University School of Nursing and Miss Fallon will matriculate at Villanova.

Two additional awards of $150 each were presented to Catherine Cifelli and Wendy Weisel, previous winners of the Louise Maas scholarship to assist in their continuing education. Miss Cifelli attends Salve Regina College in Rhode Island and Miss Weisel attends Seton Hall.

A $300 scholarship was awarded to Kelli Phox, a June graduate of Princeton High School, who will attend the University of Delaware to pursue a degree in Journalism.

Post 76 Ball Team's Record Drops to 3-10-1 As It Leads Opponents Early But Loses Late

That turnaround that Princeton Post 76 coach Pete Millington hopes will make his team a contender in the Mercer County American Legion League did not emerge last week.

Now at the midway point and mired near the bottom of the standings following three more losses in four outings, Post 76's chances are slim at best. The team may have already reached the point, concedes Millington, of looking ahead to next year. "The top teams are going to be hard to catch."

Attention will center this week on the annual All-Star contest, which will be played Monday evening at 8 at Trenton's Moody Park.

In previous years, the league has been divided into a northern and southern division; this year there is one league of 10 teams. One team of all-star players will be chosen by the coaches from among Princeton, Hopewell, Ewing, Lawrence and Hightstown. The second team will be selected from Bordentown, Hamilton, Ewing and the two Broad Street Park teams. "The city boys against the country boys," quipped one coach.

Prior to the all-star break, Princeton will oppose Trenton Post 93 Thursday evening in Trenton.

Can't Hold Lead. In all four contests last week, Princeton jumped out to an early lead, but in each instance failed to hold it. In the only game it won, Princeton had to come from behind Saturday in the final inning to edge Hopewell, 7-6.

"We seem to be in some kind of rut," said Millington. "We have them beat but we let them get away. We can't seem to hold that lead in the late innings."

Though his team is floundering with a 3-10-1 record, Millington says he plans no shakeups. "We're just going to gut it out the rest of the year and hope we can cut down on the errors."

Errors have hurt the team, particularly at short, where regular Brent Robinson has been sidelined the past three games with a severe case of poison ivy.

In its most recent start Sunday, Princeton led Hightstown 3-0 after one and was still on top 9-6 after seven. But Hightstown, which took over the league lead with a 10-4 record, after coming on to defeat Princeton, 11-9, rallied for five runs in the last two innings. It won the game with two in the ninth on a successful suicide squeeze.

Mark Adams, Judd Petrone, John Kandell, Kevin Phox and Dan Miller, all members of this year's Princeton High team, and Lawrenceville's Ron Kane each had two hits, Kandell and Phox each drove in two runs while Petrone belted a triple and Miller a double.

Hightstown cracked 16 hits off losing pitcher Andy Kulinski, including four by shortstop Rich Rousseau. Princeton was guilty of four infield errors.

SPORTS In Princeton

Error Total: 15. In a sloppily played game the previous day, marked by 15 errors, Princeton led 4-0 after three. But Hopewell, which is suffering through a long season like Princeton, went ahead in the middle innings.

In the ninth, trailing by one, Princeton tied it when pinch hitter Scott Weber tripled home Kane, who had gotten on by way of an error. After Hopewell coach Joe Sgro ordered the next two batters walked to load the bases, Pete Scibetta's sacrifice fly sent Weber home with the winning run. This time, Kulinski got the win.

On Thursday, Princeton could muster only three hits against Broad Street Park Post 313, two by Kane and one by Phox, who scored Princeton's only run in the second. BSP won its eighth, 2-1.

Right fielder Gary Bachik tied the game with a leadoff homer in the fourth; in the next inning he singled home Gene Sanguinetti, who had walked, stolen second and taken third on an overthrow. John Majarwitz (1-3) was charged with the loss.

Earlier in the week, it was more of the same: an early 4-0 lead in the first only to end up being shocked, 5-4, by the cellar-dwelling BSP Browns.

The deciding blow came in the sixth when Gary Breza lined a shot to right which Phox tried to shoestring. The ball got by him and rolled to the fence for a two-run, inside-the-park homer.

Scibetta, Kandell and Phox each had two hits for Princeton to account for six of its nine blows. Scott Weber was the losing pitcher.

SPORTS I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to You by John Bernard

One of the most unusual big league baseball managers of all-time was the man who managed the Braves in 1929 ... He was a judge, Emil Fuchs, who bought the ball club, and despite having no previous baseball experience – either as a player or manager – he decided to manage the team ... Fuchs said they couldn't do any worse under him than they had the previous year when they finished next-to-last ... But they did ... Under Fuchs they wound up last, and he gave up his one-year managing career.

Did you know that the Houston Astros -- who play indoors in the Astrodome – amazingly once had a game called because of rain ... It happened in 1976 when 10 inches of rain fell in the Houston area, flooding parts of the city ... Stadium personnel and many fans were unable to get to the Astrodome, so that indoor game was postponed because of the rain.

What are the most games any relief pitcher ever won in one season in major league baseball ? ... The record was set by Roy Face of the Pirates in 1959 ... Face, pitching exclusively in relief, won 18 games that season, and lost only one.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

GETTING TO THE "ROOT" OF THE PROBLEM!

with Sam deTuro

Woodwinds Associates

A tree fails to leaf out on the first two or three feet of branches around the perimeter, one-half of a tree, from top to bottom, has wilting foliage. Is it a strange disease, or do you, literally, need to get to the "root" of the problem?

Girdling roots frequently cut into the base of a tree and choke it to death, much like a noose around a person's neck. This condition comes about most of the time as a result of either improper planting procedures, or plants which have been grown in containers. roots are turned back toward the main stem of the tree rather than their correct, outward direction. The damage done by girdling root is, in many cases, irreversible, because the visible symptoms of it above ground do not show up right away. By the time large sections of the tree begin dying, removal of the strangling root is impractical.

The best indication of girdling root comes through examination, at the soil line, of the trunk. If this area does not flare out, but goes straight into the ground, be suspicious of roots growing across and against the trunk.

If the crown of the tree is not too far gone, dig out the soil around the roots, and cut the girdling root or roots with a sharp chisel. Although removal of some roots reduces the amount of water and nutrients previously supplied the tree, the loss is small compared to the restored capacity of the entire circumference of the trunk to function in the uptake of liquids to the foliage. Follow your surgery, of course, with a good, deep-root feeding, to restore vigor and promote healing.

Hampshire on Saturday, November 29; Maine on Tuesday, December 2; and Boston College on Thursday, December 11. The western trip follows, and then the team takes to the road once more for games at Dartmouth (Friday, January 9) and Harvard (Saturday, January 10). After their exam break, the Tigers travel to Cornell (Monday, January 26), to Brown (Friday, January 30) and Yale (Saturday, January 31) for back-to-back games.

The tough road schedule in the early part of the season could eventually work in the Tigers' favor. Seven of their last ten games – all against ECAC foes, and all crucial to the resurgent Tigers' playoff hopes – are in Baker Rink.

On Friday, February 6, after almost two months of road games, Princeton returns home to face R.P.I., then battles Vermont the following night. A week later the Tigers host Cornell (Saturday, February 14). On the final two weekends of the season, Princeton wraps up its schedule with home games against Harvard (Friday, February 27), Dartmouth (Saturday, February 28), Yale (Friday, March 6), and Brown (Saturday, March 7).

Eleven home games and 16 away are on the schedule, with a date for the contest against Providence in Baker Rink still to be determined. The schedule:

Nov. 24, McGill, away; 29, New Hampshire.

Dec. 2, Maine; 5, Boston University, away; 6, Northeastern, away; 11, Boston College; 19, Minnesota-Duluth, away; 20, Minnesota-Duluth, away; 27, Colorado College, away; 28, Air Force Academy, away; 29, Cornell, away.

Jan. 9, Dartmouth, away; 10, Harvard, away; 26, Cornell, away; 30, Brown, away; 31, Yale, away.

Feb. 6, Rensselaer Poly; 7, Vermont; 10, Colgate, away; 14, Cornell; 20, Clarkson, away; 21, St. Lawrence, away; 27, Harvard; 28, Dartmouth.

Mar. 6, Yale; 7, Brown.

BUSY SCHEDULE BOOKED

For Tigers in Basketball. Trips to Oral Roberts, St. John's, Ohio State and Rutgers, and three games in the Far West Classic in Portland Ore., highlight the 1980-81 Princeton University basketball schedule. Twelve home games and 14 on the road are included.

Only three of the Tigers' first nine games will be at home. Pete Carril's quintet will open the season on Saturday, November 29, in Tulsa, Okla., against Oral Roberts. Princeton met the Titans in the second round of the Lapchick Tournament at St. John's last year and suffered a 70-62 loss.

Oregon, Oregon State, Washington State, Utah, Stanford, Drake and Northwestern round out the field for the Far West Classic. This will be the Tigers' first appearance there since 1967, Pete Carril's first year at Princeton. Games against the seven Ivy League opponents and a January 28 battle with Rutgers close out the second half of the schedule.

The 12-game home stand will open on December 2 against St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, a 1980 participant in the NIT. Manhattan (December 13), Colgate (December 21), Seton Hall (January 5) and Fordham (January 12) are other non-league games that will take place at Jadwin Gym next winter. The balance of the home calendar will be composed of seven Ivy League games, with a January 31 contest against defending champion Penn highlighting that segment of the schedule. The complete schedule:

Nov. 29, Oral Roberts, away; Dec. 2, St. Joseph's; 6, St. John's, away; 13, Manhattan; 21, Colgate; 23, Ohio State, away; 26-30, Far West Classic in Portland;

Jan. 5, Seton Hall; 9, Brown, away; 10, Yale, away; 12, Fordham; 28, Rutgers, away; 31, Penn.

Feb. 6, Cornell, away; 7, Columbia, away; 13, Dartmouth; 14, Harvard; 20, Yale; 21, Brown; 24, Penn, away; 27, Harvard, away; 28, Dartmouth, away;

Mar. 6, Columbia; 7, Cornell.

CONTE'S NOW 9-0

In Women's Softball League. With just five weeks remaining in the Princeton Women's Softball League, Conte's Bar still has not lost game. Last week the league leaders defeated one of their closest rivals, Mike's Tavern, with relative ease, 10-5.

Mike's managed a 1-0 lead in the top of the second, and came back to tie Conte's at three apiece in the top of the third, but after that the winners pulled away with two more runs in the fourth and four more in the fifth. Carol Ann Mazzella had a two-run homer, Cathy Arcaro smashed a three-run homer, and Harriet Staub (no relation to Rusty) had three hits to lead the winner's 15-hit attack. Cathy Burrough was the winning pitcher.

Debbie Breithaupt, Maureen Merrigan and Lorraine Duthie all had to hits for Mike's.

Koffee Kup took over sole possession of second place with a 12-2 triumph over Yamasaki Swim Club. Pacing the winners were Judi Grisham, four for four with a home run, Lisa Yates, two for four with a double and a triple, and Spring Taylor, two for three. The losers' only runs came in the fifth inning on a hit by Sue Anderson. She and Karen Petruska both contributed three hits.

An eight-run third inning by Ivy Inn erased a 3-2 lead held by the Diplomats, and propelled the team to a 20-9 victory. For the winners, Kim Davison had a home run and three RBI's, Laura Decker had a home run and five RBI's, and Mary Ellen Hirst and Gretchen Kappes each had three.

Sallie McEwen had four of the Diplomats' nine hits, and scored two runs. Ivy's Marty Stockton was the winning pitcher.

Still seeking its first win of the season, Rusty Scupper played Andy's Tavern on even terms for three innings, but Andy's broke up a 1-1 contest in the fourth with four runs, and then buried the Scupper with six more in the fifth and four more over the last two innings for a 15-1 victory.

Winning pitcher Joan Barton permitted just four hits and did not walk anybody en route to the win. The only person to score for the Scupper reached base on an error.

Andy's captain, Cindy Henderson, led the winners' attack with three hits and two RBI's. Robin Bauer, Laurie

In the championship round, they defeated John O'Neil and Mel Greenfield, 3 and 2, taking a 3 up lead after the first seven holes and maintaining that margin until the 16th green. Mudge was the low handicap man in the foursome, playing at 13, with his partner at 16 getting three strokes when Mudge played at zero. O'Neil (17) and Greenfield (21) had four and nine strokes on Mudge's ball.

On their way to the final, the victors eliminated Maurice Coffee and Bill O'Shaughnessy, 2 and 1; Mike Myers and Dick Thompson, the defending champions, 3 and 2; and Bill Middlebrook and George Ford, 2 up. Saturday's other semi-final saw Jim Litvack and Harold Crane lose to O'Neil and Greenfield on the 18th green.

ELKS KEEP LEAD

With Pair of PYBA Wins. Midway through the season, the Elks remain in first place, posting a pair of victories last week in the PYBA Little League.

First to fall was Century 21, 11-8, as Paul Fisher had a triple and a double and Peter Guthrie, David Ercolano and Steve Shaff all excelled with the bat for the Elks. Century was helped by John Jaffee's home run and triple, and by Fiona Little's double and single. John Blankstein played well behind the plate and John Clarkson also contributed to the hitting for the losers.

In a tightly fought contest, the Elks edged the Eagles, 9-8. Winning pitcher Doug Davis also knocked in four RBIs. Gregory Myers, John Haber, Torbin Larson and Michael Dolotta all hit for the Elks, while John Geller and Cifelli provided the offense for the Eagles.

Roma Eterna bowed to the Eagles, 11-7, in a seven-inning game. The Eagles were leading by five until the fourth and fifth when Roma scored six runs. John Geller saved the game as relief pitcher and Steve Horowitz was a standout at second base for the victors.

Under his leadership, New Jersey has adopted program budgeting (1970) and zero-based budgeting procedures (1974). He has been an active proponent of the State's productivity improvement program and was instrumental in gaining appropriation of funds for the program under which the State invests small amounts of money in projects which promise long-term cost reductions.

More than 100 mathematicians, including some of the world's leading figures in that field, will gather on the Bowdoin College campus next week for a three-week international workshop which will center around the pioneering research of Prof. William P. Thurston of Princeton University. The 33-year old professor of mathematics lives at 106 FitzRandolph Road.

The subject of the summer workshop, which will continue through July 25, is "The Geometry and Topology of 2- and 3-Dimensional Manifolds and Kleinian groups."

A highlight of the workshop will be a series of lectures by Dr. Thurston, who has recently shown that low dimensional geometry and topology and Kleinian groups, two areas of mathematics previously believed to be unrelated, are in fact related. His discovery has touched off an almost explosive burst of new research in these fields. Other mathematicians have characterized Prof. Thurston's work as "revolutionary" and he has been credited with creating a "new geometry."

The National Science Foundation (NSF) has awarded Bowdoin a $25,550 grant in support of the workshop. It is the largest NSF summer mathematics institute grant this year with the exception of the American Mathematical Society's annual institute. Prof. Thurston, was awarded the American Mathematical Society's Oswald Veblen Prize in Geometry in 1976 and won the fourth annual Alan T. Waterman Award in 1979.

Patricia N. Cherry of 24 Dempsey Avenue, president of the Delaware-Raritan Girl Scout Council, attended a White House reception in Washington at which Rosalynn Carter previewed new Girl Scout uniforms, badges and top awards. The event marked completion of a modernized Girl Scout program of activities in step with changing times.

Peggy Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Wood, 35 Maple Street, has completed her junior year at Trenton State College where she has been on the Dean's List the past three semesters. As a third baseman on the Trenton State girls softball team, Miss Wood was named to the "All Conference" team.

MAILBOX

Privacy Invaded by a Bell.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

A recent enclosure in bills from New Jersey Telephone Co. was a small gray booklet, "Our Customers' Rights to Telephone Privacy."

In case all readers did not reach its last pages, Bell proposes to permit automatic dialing and announcement systems which can deliver "up to 1,000 calls a day giving a tape-recorded message." Bell considers it "a legitimate and useful purpose" for businesses thus to "let customers know of sales and special offers."

In short, we can be summoned at any time from any part of the house to listen to an advertisement. Our right to privacy is not by any means clear.

Many citizens of our community find this a horrendous thought. We are writing the president of the company, Morris Tanenbaum, 540 Broad Street, Neward, N.J., 07101, to tell him so.

Thought everybody might like to know.

Rotary Membership a Plus.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

If there is a Rotary Club at hand, 99 and .44 percent of school boards in America insist upon the Superintendent of Schools joining -- and attending regularly.

Rotary actively encourages, and its members are leaders in: community betterment, including good schools; business ethics; and international goodwill by sending thousands of students abroad each year.

In participating, the Superintendent meets a hundred business and professional men of the community, 50 times a year; 50 times to listen to them; 50 times to give the schools' points of view.

So long as schools are tax supported and want parental, community and business support, there rarely is a more valuable use of the Superintendent's out-of-office lunch time. He may be more on the job there than an hour alone in the office.

If you don't have good schools, or a good community, keep the superintendent away from contacts with community leaders. If you have either -- preferably both -- insist upon the two, and their leaders and associations, getting together. Few dollars are better spent.

B.E. BERGENSEN JR.

Crestview Circle

Editor's Note: Mr. Bergesen's letter is written in reply to one that appeared in TOWN TOPICS June 25 questioning the fact that the Regional Schools pay the membership dues in Rotary for Superintendent Paul Houston.

Mr. Bergensen is a past president of the club. For other news about him, see picture in this week's sports pages.

Park Opening a Success.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

We of the Princeton Quarry Park Association would like to thank each and everyone for helping us celebrate the opening of the Quarry Park on Spruce Street. And to those who donated their time in making salads and desserts, helping serve and cook the food at the barbecues, and a special thanks to those who bought trees. We'd like to especially thank the Mayor and Barbara Sigmund for singing the offical song for opening the park, "Rock of Ages" (written by Barbara Sigmund).

We'd also like to thank David Guerzini who had worked very hard to give us a wonderful display of fireworks and all thanks to those who participated in it.

It took us seven years to accomplish all that we did, and we'd like to thank all those who stood by us. This park will serve the public in many years to come.

Taxi Owners Overcharge.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter I have written to Mayor Cawley and members of Borough Council:

The taxi industry of Princeton needs some serious investigating.

Residents and visitors are continually being overcharged by local licensed taxi cabs. I have spoken to several people at Borough Hall who say there is nothing they can do unless the pick-up and drop off point is in the Borough only. If this is true, then ordinances must be changed (the Borough grants the license and collects the fees).

The very least that would be helpful, especially for our visitors, is a posted notice at pick-up points and in the cabs of the rate structure, and then maybe we wouldn't be "held up" at our destination.

A most recent case in point: I entered a cab on June 18 at the dinky station on Alexander Road at 5:15 p.m., Irish Taxi, and was driven to my home on Shadybrook Lane, about 3½ miles; the charge was $5 and I shared the cab with a stranger. According to Mr. Moore, Taxi Owners Association, this ride should have been $4.

What can be done to correct this sad situation?

DON WARNOCK

Balance is Essential
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The June 25th article in TOWN TOPICS concerning tenants speaking up for an improved rent control ordinance may have led some readers to believe the League of Women Voters supports a rent control ordinance. The League has made a brief study of the present ordinance in the Borough, and was present at the Study Commission Public Hearing to ask some questions.

We asked if the Rent Control Board could not be set up to mediate problems between landlords and tenants, and if there could not be a complaint form for tenants to fill in, just as there is a form for landlords to complete when they apply for hardship increases in rent. We also questioned the system for computing hardship increases under the present ordinance. It appears to involve a kind of double counting that gives the landlord credit for more than his actual investment.

In our discussions about rent control in our unit meetings in the fall we heard both pro and con arguments about the benefits of a rent control ordinance. There have been many studies made showing that such ordinances can actually encourage landlords to increase their rents more than they might have without the ordinance.

The League wishes it had had time to do a more complete study of this question. It is of vital importance that the Borough make a decision that will encourage landlords to stay in business, and at the same time best protect the interests of renters.

Greenhouse Functioning as 'Solar Furnace' Will Provide 90-Degree Heat in Mid-Winter

HEAT AND TOMATOES: Both, in mid-winter, from this "solar furnace" on the south of the Hamilton Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Wallack. The greenhouse means another room, for leisure-time activity, as well as a channel for heat—and a place to grow vegetables.

Tomatoes in January, warm bedrooms on snowy nights even with the heat turned off, a new room for the house.

It's all there for Alan and Robin Wallack with the 10 by 12 "solar furnace" on the south of their 29 Hamilton Avenue home, and they like it so much that Mrs. Wallack is now Four Seasons Greenhouse representative.

"We wanted an attractive unit," she says. "We like these bronze tones, rather than the usual aluminum frame. We wanted a unit which is self-supporting and wouldn't have to be heated by the house, and we wanted to grow vegetables in winter. So here we are!"

The house faces north. The Four Seasons unit opens off the diningroom at the rear through a pair of double doors. Even if nobody ever sat in the greenhouse–and the Wallacks and son Jeremy spend all their leisure time there–the very presence of the new space opens up the whole indoor living area.

In this installation, the greenhouse is at ground level, reached by steps that double as bench seating space. "It has a foundation, just like a house," Mrs. Wallack explains; "18 inches of one and one-half inch quarry stone called 'Blendstone,' with polyvinyl chloride insulated piping embedded in it."

90 Degrees in Winter. The Wallacks have covered the stones with slate flagstones, but any material could be used, even wood. When the temperature drops after sunset, a concealed blower draws heat from the embedded pipes and sends it out the holes in a pipe installed the whole width of the greenhouse at the greehouse's peak. On a sunny winter noon, it gets to be 90 Fahrenheit at that peak, Mr. Wallack reports.

Because the house is small, the hot air travels through the double doors right up the stairs to heat the three bedrooms. On very cold days, the Wallacks turn the furnace low at 4:30 and turn it off four hours later. Temperature in the greenhouse never falls below 45 Fahrenheit. In cloudy weather, heat is retained for one or two days.

Ventilation comes from a sliding door on the east, and windows on the south. Larger units have a sliding door at each end. Tempered, double-glazed safety glass is used, except for the curved area (see photo) which is Plexiglas.

On a sunny afternoon in early summer, the greenhouse is shaded by brown plastic mesh blinds that can be pulled across the glass by cords inside the greenhouse. Yes, Mrs. Wallack acknowledges, it will be hot in summer, although the blower can take in cooler, fresh air from outside.

A greenhouse like this one costs $4,000 to $4,500, plus $100 or $200 for the mesh shades. Mrs. Wallack says the rule of thumb is to double the price for installation, bringing the bottom line to $9,000. The price is the same whether you buy it through her or from the manufacturer. Buyers line up their own contractors, but she will recommend the contractor who installed this one, if the buyer wishes.

With the unit, you get either greenhouse benches or a hydroponic device for growing plants without soil. The Wallacks chose the latter and it is here that they hope to harvest those January tomatoes.

WANNA DO IT YOURSELF? Painting the outside of your house by an amateur painter can look very nice, but gets very costly to redo if that new paint is flaking off in a short time, due to poor preparation, moisture problem or the use of the wrong type of paint. Before you start, consult Julius M. Gross, Princeton, with 25 years professional painting experience to analyze the surface, moisture testing, recommending proper surface preparation and type of primers and finish paint to be used. Consultation fee $25 -- in most cases. Call Julius M. Gross at 609-924-1474 for an appointment on your job. 7-2-11

TO CREATE 3 COLLEGES

In Modernization at University. Architect Robert Venturi has been commissioned by Princeton University's trustees to plan the reorganization of the institution's undergraduate dining halls and nearby dormitories into two residential colleges that will accommodate 450 to 500 freshmen and sophomores each.

In support of this collegiate plan is a recently-announced gift to the university of $5,000,000 from Laurance Rockefeller, a member of the Princeton Class of 1932. Additional funds are being sought.

According to Jon D. Hlafter, the university's director of physical planning, the Philadelphia firm of Venturi, Rauch and Scott Brown was selected earlier in the spring to design a new social and dining hall that will be the center of another residential college. Venturi will now also have the responsibility for adapting the 64-year-old undergraduate "Commons" and the six dormitories in the northwest corner of the Princeton campus to create two additional residential colleges. The dormitories included are Holder, Hamilton, Campbell, Joline, Blair and the 100-year-old Witherspoon.

Modifications proposed over the next several years will include the reconstruction of food service arrangements, the equipping of the existing halls for study and social purposes, the modernization of dormitories, and improvements to the exterior landscaping. Mr. Hlafter said that no new buildings are currently envisioned for these two colleges.

It is hoped that at least the work on the reorganized dining facilities can be completed in time for the fall term of 1982, the same target date that has been set for the new social and dining center to be located in the southeast quadrant of the main campus.

Assisting Venturi with research and other field work on the Commons project will be the Princeton architectural firm of Short and Ford.

THERE'LL BE SOME CHANGES MADE: Blair Hall with its distinctive arch, a landmark building at Princeton University, will be included in a reorganization of selected dormitories and dining halls that will create two additional residential colleges in the northwest corner of the Princeton campus. (John W H Simpson photo)

SAVE ENERGY, MONEY

Council Decides Both. You don't need a $17,000 professional study to tell you where double-glazing the windows would save energy, Borough Council decided last week. Instead, the Energy Committee proposed by Council member Robert McChesney will probably consist of one or two citizen members, plus representatives of the fire companies and the Borough's technical engineering staff.

What Council wants to do, is find out whether and how Borough Hall itself, the Borough garage and the three firehouses could be buttoned up tighter.

Resignations have made vacancies in two agencies and Mayor Robert W. Cawley said volunteers may apply at Borough Hall. Priscilla Waring has resigned from the Joint Civil Rights Commission, and Fred Kenney from his position as homeowner representative on the Rent Levelling board.

Senior citizens, plagued by some dollar problems in making the old Borough Hall gym fit for use by the seniors, will come within the amount of their state grant, the mayor reported. He said his authority is Denise King, of the Recreation Department.
